Response to Arguments

Applicant arguments filed on 10/17/07 have been considered and they are persuasive. The finality of the rejection has been withdrawn. However at this point the examiner would request that Applicant to elect one of the group designated below for the Examination, as the different Species are identified below.

Election/Restrictions

1. This application contains claims directed to the following patentably distinct species of the claimed invention.

I. Species of the Claims 1-5 and 15, which disclose the standard printer driver. And a server in the network environment which would retain the attributes of the print job

II. Species of the Claims 6-8, which disclose the computer system using local print queue for receiving attributes of the print job.

III. Species of the Claims 11-13 which uses Windows 2000 to collect the attributes of the print job.

IV. Species Claims 14, 16-24 which disclose selecting distribution of the print job as a fax to one or more recipients; collecting a plurality of print job attributes for the print job on the Windows® 2000 platform and the distribution information including a first recipient name and a first telephone number associated with sending the print job as a fax to the first recipient.

Art Unit: 2625

The species are independent or distinct because claims to the different species recite the mutually exclusive characteristics of such species. In addition, these species are not obvious variants of each other based on the current record.

Applicant required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single disclosed species for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable.

Currently, no claims are generic. There is an examination and search burden for these patentably distinct species due to their mutually exclusive characteristics. The species require a different field of search (e.g., searching different classes/subclasses or electronic resources, or employing different search queries); and/or the prior art applicable to one species would no likely applicable to another species; and/or the species are likely to raise different non-prior art issues under U.S.C. 101 and/or 35 U.S.C. 112 first paragraph. Applicant is advised that a reply to this requirement must include an identification of the species that is elected consonant with this requirement, and a listing of all claims readable thereon, including any claims subsequently added.

An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election. The election of the species may be made with or without traverse. To preserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the election of species requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse. Traversal must be presented at the time of election in order to be considered timely. Failure to timely traverse the requirement will result in the loss of right to petition under 37 CFR 1.144. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which of these claims are readable on the elected species. Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case.
